BUILDING MATERIALS

Britton Decoflex is a recognised leading authority on the manufacturer of plain and printed Building Films, pallet covers and stretch hoods. We supply tough films suited to the toughest and most demanding applications – offering a comprehensive range of lightweight, high yield, high performance films for the widest range of industrial and commercial products. Britton Decoflex operates large-scale, high volume production facilities working to the highest quality standards, to produce consistent quality films for all applications in the Building Market.

Britton Decoflex tailors its solutions to the needs of the customer and also offers a variety of print and finishing techniques.

Britton Decoflex has pioneered many advances and its range of plain and printed films is constantly evolving to offer lighter films with greater strength and functionality, printed up to eight colours where needed. We provide packaging solutions for everything from bricks and building materials to DIY goods, and together with an experienced and integrated team of designers and polymer technologists, we can provide a bespoke design, specification and artwork service. We can also advise upon advanced materials, specialised inks, coatings and treatments.

Our Key Features include:
